

Psk. Mehmet Ali Erkuş,

He graduated from Işık University with a degree in Psychology and completed his master's degree in Industrial and Organizational Psychology.

Throughout his career, he has worked as a psychologist in the cabin crew and pilot recruitment processes at Turkish Airlines. Following the 2016 terrorist attack at Atatürk Airport, he provided psychosocial support services for one year. He also served as the coordinator of the Trauma Intervention Team established at Pegasus Airlines and has participated in post-accident response teams.

He has contributed to the Pilot Peer Support Programs conducted by SunExpress, Pegasus Airlines and the Turkish Airline Pilots' Association (TALPA). In addition, he serves as an instructor in the Aviation Psychology Certificate Program, jointly organized with Üsküdar University as Türkiye's first comprehensive aviation psychology certification program. He also worked for many years as a psychologist in the Turkish Airlines Fear of Flying Program.

Erkuş is a member of The Turkish Aerospace Medical Association. His current professional job is as General Manager, focusing on aviation psychology, psychological assessment of pilots, human factors, and corporate consulting.
